Hawai'i hotels and tourist spots have been hit hard since the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. Now it's time for the military in Hawaii to help out and have fun at the same time. One suggestion on how to do this is to go on vacation. Well, actually stay on vacation.

Instead of staying home on the weekend, go spend a few days at a local hotel or resort. Living here, you don't even have to rush around trying to fit everything in a tight schedule.

Or if you haven't been to all the local island attractions, take time to visit them.

Making this easier and more affordable, a number of local organizations and hotels are offering special deals for Hawai'i kama'aina and military.

The Chamber of Commerce even has a special "Buy Hawaii" program encouraging the support of local companies to help speed up Hawaii's continuing economic recovery.

"Many of our members have told us that they are offering specials to keep cash registers ringing and employees working," said the Chamber's President and CEO Jim Tollefson. "Through our 'Buy Hawaii' campaign, we will help members inform the community of specials they are offering so that we can help each other and our Hawaii community."

Here are just a few of the organizations and hotels offering special prices.
